Former Pennsylvania Workers' Compensation Judge Geoffrey Dlin Joins Laffey Bucci D'Andrea Reich & Ryan

Dlin will lead the firm's new workers' compensation practice, allowing injured clients to pursue workers' compensation and potential third-party claims with one legal team.

PHILADELPHIA, PA – Laffey Bucci D'Andrea Reich & Ryan is pleased to announce that the Honorable Geoffrey W. Dlin (Ret.) has joined the firm as a partner and will lead its newly established Workers' Compensation practice.

The launch marks the first time the firm will offer dedicated Workers' Compensation representation. The new practice will allow injured workers to receive coordinated legal counsel for both their Workers' Compensation claims and any related third-party personal injury claims that may arise from the same incident.

"Geoff is the gold standard for Workers' Compensation attorneys," said Jeffrey Laffey, President and Co-Managing Partner. "I've worked closely with Geoff over the last 15 years and his judgment and reputation make him the ideal attorney to lead this important expansion of our firm. This is ultimately about serving our clients in the best and most complete way possible. Bringing Geoff onto our team means our clients can have experienced attorneys working together under one roof to protect every aspect of their case."

Dlin brings decades of experience in Workers' Compensation, personal injury and employment law. During his 15 years as a Pennsylvania Workers' Compensation Judge, he decided thousands of contested cases and regularly taught attorneys, judges and private organizations about Workers' Compensation law.

While serving on the bench, Dlin also developed a statewide mediation practice and became highly regarded for his ability to resolve complex disputes. Before becoming a Judge, he represented injured workers and individuals harmed by negligence or dangerous products. He has also represented employers and insurance companies, giving him a broad understanding of how Workers' Compensation and personal injury matters are evaluated and defended.

"I am grateful for the opportunity to join forces with Jeff, a colleague and friend whom I have known and respected for many years," said Dlin. "I chose Laffey Bucci D'Andrea Reich & Ryan because of the way the firm practices law, with compassion, dedication and a genuine commitment to its clients. Those values reflect the way I have always approached my own work, and I look forward to helping the firm build a Workers' Compensation practice that injured workers can trust."

Dlin was among the first group to become Certified as a specialist in the practice of Workers' Compensation law by the Pennsylvania Bar Association Workers' Compensation Law Section as authorized by the Pennsylvania Supreme Court.

He earned his law degree from The Dickinson School of Law and his bachelor's degree from Vanderbilt University. He has taught numerous Workers' Compensation programs for the Pennsylvania Bar Institute and other legal organizations.
